Long-term Outlook

Key Assumptions

- Continuation of current economic conditions, allowing the Bank to capitalize on Inflection Point initiatives of growing higher return businesses and limiting investments in lower return or non-strategic portfolios
- Despite more potential volatility in provision, NCOs remain 20-25 bps of average total LHI
- Mortgage Finance brand strengthens and relationships expand, despite additional growth headwinds generated by point in rate cycle
- Lower-cost, lower-beta deposit verticals achieve growth and ROI targets
- Product enhancements and expanded offerings maintain non-interest income contribution to total revenue, even amidst ex-liquidity NIM expansion
- Internal investments yield efficiency benefits and allow Bank to maintain moderate overhead growth over the horizon
- Bank remains committed to efficient use of shareholder capital and maintaining liquidity at appropriate levels

Closing Comments

- Inflection Point focuses on further differentiating our reputation for premium client service in the market
- Solid traditional LHI growth in 2018, with further risk appropriate growth levels in 2019
- Deposit initiatives launched in 2018 and continued roll-out in 2019 to improve funding mix and cost of funding
- Level of loan loss provisioning provided in guidance to ensure we're strengthening our balance sheet late cycle
- Targeted approach in slowing pace of NIE growth, as we continue improving efficiencies through technology and better processes
- Record earnings in 2018 with fundamentals in place for continued earnings growth in 2019
